Bringing up prisoner as witness

6 The Supreme Court or a judge, if satisfied that any prisoner, or inmate of a training school established under the Young Offenders Act 1950 [title 10 item 33], is required as a witness in any cause or matter, may order him to be brought before the Supreme Court, and in any such case he shall be brought under the same care and custody, and be dealt with in like manner, as a prisoner brought up for the like purpose by a writ of habeas corpus.

Expenses of witnesses in civil cases

7 Any person subpoenaed to attend as a witness in a civil cause or matter may at the time of attendance apply to the Supreme Court for his expenses, and the Court shall direct the same to an amount not exceeding such amount as may be prescribed under the Court Fees and Expenses Act 1971 [title 8 item 7] to be paid by the party at whose instance the subpoena issued.

Power of Supreme Court to restrict payment of witnesses in certain cases

11 (1) The Supreme Court may in any of the following cases order that the name of any witness is to be omitted from the voucher hereinbefore provided for, and that he is to receive no payment in respect of his attendance as a witness—

Provided that—

- (b) the parties to any proceeding instituted in consequence of adultery shall be competent to give evidence in such proceeding, but no witness in any proceeding, whether a party to the suit or not, shall be liable to be asked or bound to answer any question tending to show that he or she has been guilty of adultery, unless such witness has already given evidence in the same proceeding in disproof of his or her alleged adultery;
- (c) nothing herein contained shall, except as is expressly provided, affect any provision of the Wills Act 1988 [title 26 item 2];

- (e) a person charged and called as a witness shall not be asked, and if asked shall not be required to answer, any question tending to show that he has committed or been convicted of or been charged with any offence other than that with which he is then charged, or is of bad character, unless—
 - (i) the proof that he has committed or been convicted of such other offence is admissible evidence to show that he is guilty of the offence with which he is then charged; or
 - (ii) he has personally or by his counsel questioned any witness for the prosecution with a view to establish his own good character, or has given evidence of his good character, or the nature or conduct of the defence is such as to involve imputations on the character of the informant in the proceedings or any witness for the prosecution; or
 - (iii) he has given evidence against any other person charged with the same offence, or with any other offence tried at the same time as the offence with which he is charged.

(2) Every person called as a witness or, as the case may be, giving evidence on his own behalf, in pursuance of subsection (1) shall, unless otherwise ordered by the court, give his evidence from the witness box or other place from which the other witnesses give their evidence.

(3) [Transitional provision omitted.]

17 [Repealed by 2006:1]

[Section 17 repealed by 2006:1 s.102 & Sch 4 effective 8 September 2008]

Special provisions relating to indictments for public nuisances etc

18 On the trial of any indictment or other proceeding for the non-repair of a public highway, or bridge, or for a nuisance to any public highway, or bridge, and of any other indictment or proceeding instituted for the purpose of trying or enforcing a civil right only, every defendant to such indictment or proceeding, and the wife or husband of any such defendant, shall be admissible witnesses and compellable to give evidence.

Party discrediting own witnesses

19 A party producing a witness shall not be allowed to impeach his credit by general evidence of bad character, but he may in case the witness, in the opinion of the court which tries the case, proves adverse, contradict him by other evidence or by leave of such court prove that he has made at other times a statement inconsistent with his present testimony; but before such last mentioned proof may be given the circumstances of the supposed statement sufficient to designate the particular occasion must be mentioned to the witness and he must be asked whether or not he has made such statement.

Proof of contradictory statements by witness

20 If a witness upon cross-examination as to a former statement made by him relative to the subject matter of the cause or matter, and inconsistent with his present testimony, does not distinctly admit that he has made such statement, proof may be given that he did in fact make it; but before such proof can be given the circumstances of the supposed statement sufficient to designate the particular occasion must be mentioned to the witness and he must be asked whether or not he has made such statement.

Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing

21 A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing relative to the subject matter of the cause or matter without such writing being shown to him; but if it is intended to contradict such witness by the writing his attention must, before such contradictory proof may be given, be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him:

Provided that it shall be competent for the court at any time during the trial to require the production of the writing for its inspection and the court may thereupon make such use of it for the purposes of the trial as the court may think fit.

Power to question witness as to previous conviction

22 A witness may be questioned as to whether he has previously been convicted of any offence, and upon being so questioned, if he either denies or does not admit the fact or refuses to answer, it shall be lawful for the cross-examining party to prove such conviction.

Duty to substantiate with evidence suggestion that witness has given false evidence etc

22A (1) If on cross-examination it is suggested to a witness that he has given evidence which he knows to be false or that his conduct in relation to an accused person or another party was unlawful or improper or that the witness is a person who should not be believed because of his general character then, without prejudice to section 15(1)(e), there shall be a duty on the party making the allegation to call evidence to substantiate it.

(2) If an accused person only gives evidence to substantiate an allegation referred to in subsection (1) then he shall only be cross-examined on that evidence and his right to remain silent shall not be affected by the giving of such evidence.

(3) If a party fails to substantiate with evidence an allegation referred to in subsection (1) the court shall ignore the allegation and if there is a jury the judge shall instruct the jury to ignore it.

Method of administering and taking oaths

23 (1) Any oath may be administered and taken in the manner and form following, that is to say, the person taking the oath shall hold the New Testament, or, in the case of a Jew, the Old Testament, in his uplifted hand, and shall say, or repeat after the officer administering the oath, the words "I swear by Almighty God that" followed by the words of the prescribed or usual oath.

(2) The officer administering an oath shall, unless the person about to take the oath voluntarily objects thereto, or is physically incapable of so taking the oath, administer the oath in manner and form aforesaid without question:

Provided that, in the case of a person who is neither a Christian nor a Jew, the oath shall be administered in any lawful manner.

Validity of oath not affected by absence of religious belief

24 Where an oath has been duly administered and taken the fact that the person to whom the oath was administered had, at the time of taking such oath, no religious belief, shall not for any purpose affect the validity of such oath.

Solemn affirmation permitted instead of oath in certain cases

25 Every person objecting to be sworn, and stating, as the ground of such objection, either that he has no religious belief or that the taking of an oath is contrary to his religious belief shall be permitted to make his solemn affirmation, instead of taking an oath, in all courts and places, and before all officers and persons authorized to administer oaths, and for all purposes where an oath is or shall be required by law, which affirmation shall be of the same force and effect as if such person had taken the oath; and if any person making such affirmation wilfully, falsely, and corruptly affirms any matter or thing which, if deposed upon oath, would have constituted the offence of perjury, he, or, as the case may be, any other person, may be proceeded against as if he had committed the offence of perjury.

Form of administration of solemn affirmation

26 Every solemn affirmation shall be administered in the following form—

You (naming the person affirming) do solemnly, sincerely and truly affirm and declare that (proceeding with the words of the oath prescribed by law and omitting any words of imprecation or calling to witness).

Form of solemn affirmation in writing

PART IIA

HEARSAY EVIDENCE IN CIVIL PROCEEDINGS

Hearsay evidence to be admissible only by virtue of this Act and other statutory provisions, or by agreement

27A In any civil proceedings a statement other than one made by a person while giving oral evidence in those proceedings shall be admissible as evidence of any fact stated therein to the extent that it is so admissible by virtue of any provision of this or any other Act or by agreement of the parties, but not otherwise.

Admissibility of out-of-court statements as evidence of facts stated

27B (1) In any civil proceedings a statement made, whether orally or in a document or otherwise, by any person, whether called as a witness in those proceedings or not, shall, subject to this section and to the rules of court, be admissible as evidence of any fact stated therein of which direct oral evidence by him would be admissible.

(2) Where in any civil proceedings a party desiring to give a statement, other than a statement by an expert, in evidence by virtue of this section has called or intends to call as a witness in the proceedings the person by whom the statement was made, the statement—

- (a) shall not be given in evidence by virtue of this section on behalf of that party without the leave of the court; and
- (b) without prejudice to paragraph (a), shall not be given in evidence by virtue of this section on behalf of that party before the conclusion of the examination-in-chief of the person by whom it was made, except—
 - (i) where before that person is called the court allows evidence of the making of the statement to be given on behalf of that party by some other person; or
 - (ii) in so far as the court allows the person by whom the statement was made to narrate it in the course of his examination-in-chief on the ground that to prevent him from doing so would adversely affect the intelligibility of his evidence.

(3) Where in any civil proceedings a statement which was made otherwise than in a document is admissible by virtue of this section, no evidence other than direct oral evidence by the person who made the statement or any person who heard or otherwise perceived it being made shall be admissible for the purpose of proving it:

Provided that if the statement in question was made by a person while giving oral evidence in some other legal proceedings (whether civil or criminal), it may be proved in any manner authorized by the court.

Witness's previous statement, if proved, to be evidence of facts stated

27C (1) Where in any civil proceedings—

- (a) a previous inconsistent or contradictory statement made by a person called as a witness in those proceedings is proved by virtue of section 19, 20 or 21; or
- (b) a previous statement made by a person called as aforesaid is proved for the purpose of rebutting a suggestion that his evidence has been fabricated, that statement shall by virtue of this subsection be admissible as evidence of any fact or matter stated therein of which direct oral evidence by him would be admissible.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall affect any of the rules of law relating to the circumstances in which, where a person called as a witness in any civil proceedings is cross-examined on a document used by him to refresh his memory, that document may be made evidence in those proceedings; and where a document or any part of a document is received in evidence in any such proceedings by virtue of any such rule of law, any statement made in that document or part by the person using the document to refresh his memory shall by virtue of this subsection be admissible as evidence of any fact stated therein of which direct oral evidence by him would be admissible.

Admissibility of certain records as evidence of facts stated

27D (1) Without prejudice to section 27E, in any civil proceedings a statement contained in a document shall, subject to this section and to rules of court, be admissible as evidence of any fact stated therein of which direct oral evidence would be admissible, if the document is, or forms part of, a record compiled by a person acting under a duty from information which was supplied by a person, whether acting under a duty or not, who had, or may reasonably be supposed to have had, personal knowledge of the matters dealt with in that information and which, if not supplied by that person to the compiler of the record directly, was supplied by him to the compiler of the record indirectly through one or more intermediaries each acting under a duty.

(2) Where in any civil proceedings a party desiring to give a statement in evidence by virtue of this section has called or intends to call as a witness in the proceedings the person who originally supplied the information from which the record containing the statement was compiled, the statement—

- (a) shall not be given in evidence by virtue of this section on behalf of that party without the leave of the court; and
- (b) without prejudice to paragraph (a), shall not without the leave of the court be given in evidence by virtue of this section on behalf of that party before the conclusion of the examination-in-chief of the person who originally supplied the said information.

(3) Any reference in this section to a person acting under a duty includes a reference to a person acting in the course of any trade, business, profession or other occupation in which he is engaged or employed or for the purposes of any paid or unpaid office held by him.

Admissibility of statements produced by computers

27E (1) In any civil proceedings a statement contained in a document produced by a computer shall, subject to the rules of court, be admissible as evidence of any fact stated therein of which direct oral evidence would be admissible, if it is shown that the conditions mentioned in subsection (2) are satisfied in relation to the statement and computer in question.

(2) The conditions referred to in subsection (1) are—

- (a) that the document containing the statement was produced by the computer during a period over which the computer was used regularly to store or process information for the purposes of any activities regularly carried on over that period, whether for profit or not, by any body, whether corporate or not, or by any individual;
- (b) that over that period there was regularly supplied to the computer in the ordinary course of those activities information of the kind contained in the statement or of the kind from which the information so contained is derived;
- (c) that throughout the material part of that period the computer was operating properly or, if not, that any respect in which it was not operating properly or was out of operation during that part of that period was not such as to affect the production of the document or the accuracy of its contents; and

- (d) that the information contained in the statement reproduces or is derived from information supplied to the computer in the ordinary course of those activities.

(2) Subsection (1) shall apply in relation to a statement given in evidence by virtue of section 27D as it applies in relation to a statement given in evidence by virtue of section 27B, except that references to the person who made the statement and to his making the statement shall be construed respectively as references to the person who originally supplied the information from which the record containing the statement was compiled and to his supplying that information.

57 (1) A copy of an entry in a banker's book shall not be received in evidence unless it is first proved that the book was, at the time of making the entry, one of the ordinary books of the bank, and that the entry was made in the usual and ordinary course of business, and that the book is in the custody or control of the bank.

(2) Such proof may be given by the banker or by a partner or officer of the bank, and may be given orally or by an affidavit sworn before any commissioner or person authorized to take affidavits in the Supreme Court.

58 (1) A copy of an entry in a banker's book shall not be received in evidence unless it is further proved that the copy has been examined with the original entry and is correct.

(2) Such proof shall be given by some person who has examined the copy with the original entry, and may be given either orally or by an affidavit sworn before any commissioner or person authorized to take affidavits in the Supreme Court.

(2) An order under this section may be made either with or without summoning the bank or any other party, and shall be served on the bank three clear days before the order is to be obeyed, unless the court or judge otherwise directs.

(3) The costs of any application to a court or judge and the costs of anything done or to be done under an order of a court or judge, shall be in the discretion of the court or Judge, who may order the costs or any part thereof to be paid to any party by the bank where the costs have been occasioned by any default or delay on the part of the bank.

(4) Any such order against a bank may be enforced as if the bank were a party to the proceeding, or otherwise as the court or Judge may allow or direct.

Powers of magistrates, coroners, etc. with respect to bankers' books

61 Any magistrate or court of summary jurisdiction, coroner or marine court of enquiry, may, with respect to any proceeding before such officer or court in or over which such officer or court has lawful jurisdiction, exercise the powers of a Judge under section 59, and shall, in all such proceedings, receive in evidence any copy of an entry in a banker's book for the purposes mentioned in section 56 on receiving such proof on oath by viva voce testimony, as is required by section 57 and section 58.

62 In the case of any document which, under this Act, or any other Act, or any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, is receivable in evidence if it purports to be sealed or impressed with a stamp, or sealed and signed or signed and having a statement attached thereto, or signed alone, or impressed with a stamp and signed, in the manner directed in this or any such Act or Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, it shall not be necessary to prove such seal or stamp, where a seal or stamp is necessary, or such signature, or the truth of any statement directed to be attached thereto, or the official character of the person appearing to have signed the same, but every such document shall be admitted in evidence in every case in which the original record would have been admissible.

Comparison of disputed handwriting

63 Comparison of a disputed handwriting with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the court to be genuine shall be permitted to be made by witnesses, and such writings and the evidence of witnesses respecting the same may be submitted to the court and jury (if any) as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise of the writing in dispute.

Proof by other than attesting witnesses

64 (1) It shall not be necessary to prove by the attesting witness any document to the validity of which attestation is not requisite, and any such document may be proved as if there had been no attesting witness thereto.

(2) In all causes and matters any such document may be proved by admission.

Proof of instrument to validity of which attestation is necessary

68 The provisions of this Part shall be deemed to be in addition to, and not in derogation to any powers of proving documents given by any Act or Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom, or existing at common law.

PART V

MISCELLANEOUS AND SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS

Admissibility of documentary evidence as to facts in issue

69 (1) In any civil proceedings where oral evidence of a fact would be admissible, any statement made by a person in a document and tending to establish that fact shall, on production of the original document, be admissible as evidence of that fact if the following conditions are satisfied—

- (a) if the maker of the statement either—
 - (i) had personal knowledge of the matters dealt with by the statement; or
 - (ii) where the document in question is or forms part of a record purporting to be a continuous record, made the statement (in so far as the matters dealt with thereby are not within his personal knowledge) in the performance of a duty to record information supplied to him by a person who had, or might reasonably be supposed to have, personal knowledge of those matters; and

(b) if the maker of the statement is called as a witness in the proceedings:

Provided that the condition that the maker of the statement shall be called as a witness need not be satisfied if he is dead, or unfit by reason of his bodily or mental condition to attend as a witness, or if he is absent from Bermuda and it is not reasonably practicable to secure his attendance, or if all reasonable efforts to find him have been made without success.

(2) In any civil proceedings the court may at any stage of the proceedings, if having regard to all the circumstances of the case it is satisfied that undue delay or expense would otherwise be caused, order that such a statement as is mentioned in subsection (1) shall be admissible as evidence or may, without any such order having been made, admit such a statement in evidence—

(a) notwithstanding that the maker of the statement is available but is not called as a witness;

(b) notwithstanding that the original document is not produced, if in lieu thereof there is produced a copy of the original document or of the material part thereof certified to be a true copy in such manner as may be specified in the order or as the court may approve, as the case may be.

(3) Nothing in this section shall render admissible as evidence any statement made by a person interested at a time when proceedings were pending or anticipated involving a dispute as to any fact which the statement might tend to establish.

(4) For the purposes of this section, a statement in a document shall not be deemed to have been made by a person unless the document or the material part thereof was written, made or produced by him with his own hand, or was signed or initialled by him or otherwise recognized by him in writing as one for the accuracy of which he is responsible.

(5) For the purpose of deciding whether or not a statement is admissible as evidence by virtue of the foregoing provisions of this section, the court may draw any reasonable inference from the form or contents of the documents in which the statement is contained, or from any other circumstances and may, in deciding whether or not a person is fit to attend as a witness, act on a certificate purporting to be the certificate of a medical practitioner; and where the proceedings are with a jury, the court may in its discretion reject the statement notwithstanding that the requirements of this section are satisfied with respect thereto, if for any reason it appears to it to be inexpedient in the interests of justice that the statement should be admitted.

(6) In this section—

(a) “document” includes books, plans, drawings and photographs;

(b) “statement” includes any representation of fact, whether made in words or otherwise.

Onus of proving exceptions, etc.

69A (1) Where the defendant to an information, an indictment or a complaint relies for his defence on any exception, exemption, proviso, excuse or qualification, whether or not it accompanies the description of the offence in the enactment creating the offence or on which the complaint is founded, the burden of proving the exception, exemption, proviso, excuse or qualification shall be on him.

(2) Subsection (1) is notwithstanding that the information or indictment contains an allegation negating the exception, exemption, proviso, excuse or qualification.

[Section 69A inserted by 2015 : 38 s. 90 effective 6 November 2015]

Weight to be attached to evidence

70 (1) In estimating the weight, if any, to be attached to a statement rendered admissible as evidence by virtue of section 69 regard shall be had to all the circumstances from which any inference can reasonably be drawn as to the accuracy or otherwise of the statement, and in particular to the question whether or not the statement was made contemporaneously with the occurrence or existence of the facts stated, and to the question whether or not the maker of the statement had any incentive to conceal or misrepresent facts.

(2) For the purpose of any rule of law or practice requiring evidence to be corroborated or regulating the manner in which uncorroborated evidence is to be treated, a statement rendered admissible by virtue of section 69 shall not be treated as corroboration of evidence given by the maker of the statement.

(3) In this section, "statement" has the meaning assigned to it in section 69(6).

Convictions as evidence in civil proceedings

70A (1) In any civil proceedings the fact that a person has been convicted of an offence by or before any court in Bermuda shall, subject to subsection (3), be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving, where to do so is relevant to any issue in those proceedings, that he committed that offence, whether he was so convicted upon a plea of guilty or otherwise and whether or not he is a party to the civil proceedings; but no conviction other than a subsisting one shall be admissible in evidence by virtue of this section.

(2) In any civil proceedings in which by virtue of this section a person is proved to have been convicted of an offence by or before any court in Bermuda—

- (a) he shall be taken to have committed that offence, unless the contrary is proved; and
- (b) without prejudice to the reception of any other admissible evidence for the purpose of identifying the facts on which the conviction was based, the contents of any document which is admissible as evidence of the conviction, and the contents of the information, complaint, indictment or charge-sheet on which the person in question was convicted, shall be admissible in evidence for that purpose.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prejudice the operation of section 70C or any other enactment whereby a conviction or a finding of fact in any criminal proceedings is for the purposes of any other proceedings made conclusive evidence of any fact.

(4) Where in any civil proceedings the contents of any document are admissible in evidence by virtue of subsection (2), a copy of that document, or of the material part thereof purporting to be certified or otherwise authenticated by or on behalf of the court or authority having custody of that document shall be admissible in evidence and shall be taken to be a true copy of that document or part unless the contrary is shown.

(5) Evidence that a person has been convicted of an offence, although in respect of that offence he has been rehabilitated under the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1977 [title 8 item 40], shall not be admissible under this section unless the court is satisfied that such conviction is relevant to an issue being tried.

Findings of adultery and paternity as evidence in civil proceedings

70B (1) In any civil proceedings—

- (a) the fact that a person has been found to have committed adultery in any matrimonial proceedings; and
- (b) the fact that a person has been adjudged to be the father of a child in any affiliation proceedings before a court in Bermuda, shall, subject to subsection (3), be admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving, where to do so is relevant to any issue in those civil proceedings, that he committed the adultery to which the finding relates or, as the case may be, the father of that child, whether or not he offered any defence to the allegation of adultery or paternity and whether or not he is a party to the civil proceedings; but no finding or adjudication other than a subsisting one shall be admissible in evidence by virtue of this section.

(2) In any civil proceedings in which by virtue of this section evidence has been admitted that a person has been found to have committed adultery or to have been adjudged to be the father of a child—

- (a) he shall be taken to have committed the adultery to which the finding relates or, as the case may be, to be the father of that child, unless the contrary is proved; and
- (b) without prejudice to the reception of any other admissible evidence for the purpose of identifying the facts on which the finding or adjudication was based, the contents of any document which was before the court, or which contains any pronouncement of the court, in the matrimonial or affiliation proceedings in question shall be admissible in evidence for that purpose.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prejudice the operation of any enactment whereby a finding of fact in any matrimonial or affiliation proceedings is for the purposes of any other proceedings made conclusive evidence of any fact.

(4) Section 70A(4) shall apply for the purposes of this section as if the reference to subsection (2) were a reference to subsection (2) of this section.

Conclusiveness of convictions for purposes of defamation actions

70C (1) In an action for libel or slander in which the question whether a person did or did not commit a criminal offence is relevant to an issue arising in the action, proof that, at the time when the issue falls to be determined, that person stands convicted of that offence shall be conclusive evidence that he committed that offence; and his conviction thereof shall be admissible in evidence accordingly.

(2) In any such action in which by virtue of this section a person is proved to have been convicted of an offence, the contents of any document which is admissible as evidence of the conviction, and the contents of the information, complaint, indictment or charge-sheet on which that person was convicted, shall, without prejudice to the reception of any other admissible evidence for the purpose of identifying the facts on which the conviction was based, be admissible in evidence for the purpose of identifying those facts.

(3) For the purposes of this section a person shall be taken to stand convicted of an offence if but only if there subsists against him a conviction of that offence by or before any court in Bermuda.

(4) Section 105(2) and (4) shall apply for the purposes of this section as they apply for the purposes of that section, but as if in section 105(4) the reference to subsection (2) were a reference to subsection (2) of this section.

Proof of absence from Bermuda

71 (1) In any proceedings, whether civil or criminal, evidence that a person is or has been absent from Bermuda may, without prejudice to any other method of proving such absence, be given in the manner hereinafter specified in this subsection—

- (a) as respects any person, by production of a certificate setting out that that person left Bermuda on a certain day and has not returned, or has returned on a certain day (as may be applicable) and purporting to be signed by the Chief Immigration Officer; or
- (b) as respects a person who is or was at the time when he last left Bermuda a member of any part of the armed forces, being a person whose presence in Bermuda was occasioned solely by reason of his being a member of the armed forces, by the production of a certificate setting out that that person left Bermuda on a certain day and has not returned on a certain day (as may be applicable) and purporting to be signed by the officer for the time being in command in Bermuda of that part of the armed forces of which that person is, or was at the time he has left Bermuda, a member; or
- (c) as respects a person who is, or was at the time when he last left Bermuda,—
 - (i) a civilian employee serving with any part of the armed forces, being a person whose presence in Bermuda was occasioned solely by such employment; or

- (ii) the wife or dependent child of a member of any part of the armed forces, being a wife or child whose presence in Bermuda was occasioned solely by the presence of the member of whom she or the child is a dependent, by the production of a certificate setting out that that person left Bermuda on a certain day and has not returned, or has returned on a certain day (as may be applicable) and purporting to be signed by the officer for the time being in command in Bermuda of that part of the armed forces with which that person was serving, or, as the case may be, of that part of the armed forces of which the person upon whom the absent person is dependent was a member;

and any such certificate as aforesaid shall, until the contrary is proved, be taken as proof of the facts set out therein.

(2) In this section “the armed forces” means any of the naval, military or air forces of Her Majesty or of the United States of America.

Examination of witness under commission

72 Every judge, or commissioner or other person appointed to take the examination of witnesses under a commission to take evidence, shall take all such examinations upon oath, or affirmation in cases where under this Act affirmation is allowed, which may be administered either by such commissioner or person or by any Judge.

Costs of commission to examine witnesses

73 The costs attendant upon any commission to examine witnesses shall be costs in the cause unless otherwise directed by the judge making the order for the commission to issue, or by the court before which the cause is tried.

Administration of oaths by Justices

74 It shall not be lawful for any Justice of the Peace in Bermuda to administer or receive or cause or allow to be administered, or received, any oath, affidavit, or solemn affirmation, touching any matter whereof such Justice has not jurisdiction or cognizance by virtue of any Act or any Act of the Parliament of the United Kingdom:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall extend to any oath, affidavit, or solemn affirmation, before any justice, in any matter or thing touching the preservation of the peace, or the prosecution, trial, or punishment, of offences, or touching any proceedings before the Senate or the House of Assembly in Bermuda, or any Committee thereof, respectively, nor to any proceedings before any court of justice in Bermuda, nor to any oath, affidavit, or affirmation which may be required by the laws of the United Kingdom, or any part thereof, or of any part of Her Majesty's dominions, or of any Foreign State, to give validity to instruments of writing designed to be used in any such place.
